A Winter Sermon. Thou dwellest in a warm and cheerful home, Thy roof in vain the winter tempest lashes; While houseless wretches round thy mansion roam,

On whose unsheltered head the torrent plashes. Thy board is loaded with the richest meats, O'er which thine eyes in sated languor wander; Many might live on what thy mastiff eats, r feast on fragments which thy servants squander. Thy limbs are muffled from the piercing blast,

When from thy fireside corner thou dost sally; Many have scarce a rag about them cast, With which the frosty breezes toy and dally. Thou hast soft smiles to greet thy kiss of love, When thy light stop resounds within the portal some have no friends save Him who dwells above, No sweet communion with a fellow mortal.

Thou sleepest soundly on thy costly bed, Lulled by the power of luxuries unnumbered; Some pillow on a stone an aching head, Never again to wake when they have slumbered. Then think of those who, formed of kindred clay, Depend upon the doles thy bounty scatters;

And God will hear them for thy welfare pray-They are his children though in rags and tatters.

Household Words. The Love Case, or Marriage au Courant. The English "Society for the diffusion of useful knowledge"-a commodity, by the way, so much diffused in this country that some people get very little of it-published a very entertaining and in structive volume on "the pursuit of knowledge under difficulties." Why does not some one publish a volume on "the pursuit of wives under difficulties," detailing the various expedients to which fond lovers have been forced by stern parents, obstinate guardians and relentless duennas, from the days of Troilus and Cressila down; and showing how, in the game of matrimony and courtship, many an ardent candidate when expecting to be mated found himself badly checkmated? "At lovers' oaths Jove laughs," and at lovers' shifts and emergencies, however serious to themselves, the most saturine would often laugh. Leaving the suggestion. however, for this work free and open to our book making tribe, we pass

Although resolved to leave and marry without leave, they encountered another difficulty—the laws tling to the cheek, give elasticity to the step, and improve of the State imperatively demanded a license, and under the circumstances a license could not be obtained. Nothing daunted, however, they resolved to flee med on persons residing in the city of Richmond, Va., by the to a clime more hospitable to Hymen, and to join their hands beneath the shade of the Palmetto, where the gates of matrimoney, like the courts of chancery are always open for those who would go in, but closed on those who would retreat. They repaired accordingly to the rail road, mounted the cars, in dread suspense all the while lest pursuit should overtake them. On reaching the point whence they could most conveniently embark, they rushed aboard the vessel, which soon cast off, and got under way .-The state of the water, however, here interposed a bar to their progress, and the fortune of their loves seemed likely to be stranded on shallows, flats and sands. From the Cincinnati Commercial. What are Printers made of!

More than once we have had occasion to regard printers as strange and more than ordinary men .-An experience of some fifteen years with the craft, has offered innumerable opportunities to find them out, and study in a measure their " natural history." Printers are to a greater extent than any other class of professional men, migratory. The printing office, of itself, being a literary Institute, few can abide or labor long in it without getting somewhat enlightened upon the historical, scientific and general intelligence of the day, and about as soon as the apprentice gets into his freedom suit, or his head crammed with knowledge of the craft, his ambition tends to go out into the wide, wide world, and see the works of art and nature he has read, and enabled others to read about. Few seem bent on setting down to make a fortune, and the expense of a professional fit-out being a mere song, or rather a piece of brass rule, which serves as a sort of cabalistic sign to the brotherhood scattered over creation, a clean dickey, light heart, and equally hefted pocket book, the printer goes on his way of exploration and adventure. Posted up in " price currents," he can talk business with the merchant or planter; versed in general statistics of the nation, he can hold his own with your country politician, and for whom, if he takes a notion, he can set down in a flourishing settlement, start a paper, replenish his purse and wardrobe, write and set up patriotic leaders and irresistible puffs, which sends his patron to Congress or the Legislature. He has long been accustomed to "tattle," " squibs," " poetic gems," "the ladies department," &c., and proves quite at home in conversational circles, where he can illuminate old ladies, the girls and children, equal to a pedagogue, Hood's works, Baron Munchausen or Robinson Crusoe. He can talk horse or horned cattle, all over the fields of agriculture. He has had many cases in his time to attend to, such as law reports, and wonderful cures, and hence, is something versed in law and physic. Having set up and proved astronomical tables, he knows something, also, about the starry heavens, waters and winds. And, indeed, not to be too prolix, the printer, if a thorough one, is a man of science as well as art, and backed by his collegiate education, his views expanded by travel, and himself and most always a whole history of human nature-under a hat. In this office are some twenty printers engaged only look at them! In ages ranging from twenty to forty; in size and complexion, from the ordinary stout, (we never knew a fat printer,) to some that might crawl through a greased flute; some as white as Circassians, and others brown or rosy-your Georgia Cracker," or Pennsylvania Publican.-Some bearded like the Pard, others smooth-faced as the Greek Slave. One has traveled all over the North American continent, hunted bears in Arkansas, and the wild horse in the pampas of South America; another has been out on the broad ocean, and seen "life before the mast; another graduated at West Point, served in the army, and accompanied Col. Doniphan in his Zenophenic grand campaign all over New Mexico. What a book he can write! Another has kept tavern, sold goods at auction, traveled over the United States several times, been well off and been broken-often. Two have been "on the stage," a profession printers are much addicted to; for about half the actors on the American boards were printers. One, we believe, has preached sermons, and another has lectured to crowded houses. Another has served in Mexico with Gen. Scott. A sixth has been stump orator, member of the Legislature "out West," and fought a duel, we believe. Three have practiced medicine, kept store, dealt in horses, cotton and negroes. Two have held municipal offices. Four or five have been officers and privates in various military companies. One served with Gen. Houston in the Texan revolution, and one in the Canadian rebellion. Six or eight have edited and published newspapers in various parts of the United States. One has been first officer of a packet on the "ragin' canawl." One was wornded-leg off-at the storming of Monterey. Another has clerked onta Mississippi steamer. was blown up and slightly killed. Some are or have been married; some are old bachelors. All have seen more or less of life, and its changeable scenes. They are all live men, good practical printers, speak various languages, and form a newspaper corps hard to surpass or equal.
